Fashion

It's not that easy to answer the question, "what is fashion?" because it means different things to different people. Fashion is an art. It's a religion. It's a job. It's related to personality. It's an escape or a disguise. It is a feast for the eyes. Fashion is an individual statement of expression for each of us. French fashion designer Coco Chanel once said, "Fashion is not something that exists in dresses only. Fashion is in the sky, in the street, fashion has to do with ideas, the way we live, what is happening". It's true. Fashion isn't defined only by our clothing choices, but is also expressed through the way we carry ourselves, our personalities and our views of the world. At its most fundamental (and straight from the dictionary), fashion is simply the prevailing style or custom, as in dress or behavior. So, who exactly answers the question "what is fashion"? Who decides what's fashionable and what isn't? What's in or what's out?
